

BETWEEN HEAVEN AND HELL

This event is about getting to know Heaven and Hell, black and white as well as the dark and the bright side of life.

DETAILED DESCRIPTION:

INVITATION

A few weeks in advance the guests receive invitation, which includes an extract from Dante Alighieri's "Divine Comedy" and a suggestion to set off on a journey to Heaven and Hell (including Purgatory, of course). The invitation also tells where and when the journey begins (the date, the time and the venue). The dress code is black and white.

WELCOMING OF THE GUESTS

Coming to the venue the guests find themselves in Heaven where they walk on clouds (special kind of foam that isn't wet), listen to divine harp music and drink Pina Colada cocktails with cream served by pretty angels (event assistants). Then they are seated at the tables to enjoy the divinely delicious dinner.

OPENING OF THE EVENT

Here comes St. Peter (aka the Host of the event) wearing – of course, what else could it be – a habit and carrying a huge bunch of keys. He is accompanied by pretty angels wearing short skirts and white wings. After greeting the guests St. Peter invites the Company's CEO for a welcoming speech, and that's an exclusive opportunity to say greet your staff while standing on a cloud!

Part one. Heaven

While the guests are enjoying the divine dishes, opera singers sing well-known arias from the greatest operas and operettas. The show continues with the performance of classic and modern ballet dancers who dance pieces from the famous ballets, such as "The Swan Lake", "Zhizel", and "Carmina Burana".

Then St. Peter invites everyone to a white wine degustation. Midway through it the guests suddenly hear a thunderous voice telling them that they have yielded to temptation and have sinned, so they will all be banished to Hell.

Part two. Hell

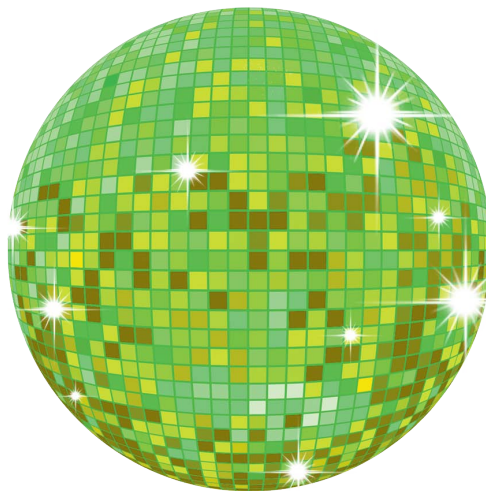

The guests cross Purgatory (a corridor lit with red lights and decorated with crooked mirrors) to get to Hell. This room is filled with smoke (by using smoke machines) and loud music; there are reflections of fire flames (achieved with the help of special effects) on the walls, the floor and the ceiling. Lucifer (the same Host of the event wearing a different costume) carrying a fire torch comes to meet the guests. He introduces all types of 'entertainment' to be found in his domain: the Hell Casino for the adventure and risk lovers, cigar and whiskey degustation.

Then it's time for a fakir's performance followed by a band playing some really loud and energetic music. The guests have a real opportunity to party.

There are dishes straight from the Hell's kitchen for everyone to enjoy: grilled steaks with chili sauce and red wine.

As for the sweet treat, there is a cake, one half of which is heavenly white and the other half ... well, is tasty as hell.

After sweet treats and probably coffee and tea, it's time for a DJ from Hell and a wild disco.

We wish you a stunning party!